PROGRAM NOTES

Wandering was written for my first composition class at McGill University in 2023. Having never composed for an instrument other than the piano, I was extremely excited to work with the violin. As I wrote this piece, I felt like I was wandering around, exploring the different timbers of the violin for the first time, hence the title Wandering. The main melodic idea is introduced by the piano in the first measure, and is then developed upon, and transformed, as the piece progresses.
